Sundays UMW Program

Taken from the United Methodist Women Program Book 2020–2021.

Community Marked by Unity

An unusual community, marked by generosity, unselfishness and care for everyone, grows beyond the leadership's expectations. The disciples try to keep up with all the responsibilities, they try to make sure that they put first things first, but it's all a bit too much. One of their principles is that the community holds all things in common, so that everyone is fed, but now it seems some are going hungry. The weakest members of the community who can't make it to the common meals or the distribution points are the ones missing out, and the leadership doesn't even know this is happening. The very essence of the community is at risk.

The early Christian community was marked by God's grace, as seen in the sign that there was not a needy person among them. But the rapid growth of the community resulted in some who were going without food – weren't their needs within the community of grace? Unthinkable! Devoted to the idea of community as a witness to grace, shown in how they made sure no one was needy, someone realized that they needed to speak up. The leaders listened and recognized that they needed to delegate, to share responsibility. They did not question their presumption of solidarity. They did not question the need to care for everyone. They chose new leaders to help continue this commitment.

When we first read this text, it may appear to be a conflict between the Hellenists (those who were of Greek heritage) and the Hebrews (those who were originally Jewish). But the reality is that “the whole group of those who believed were of one heart and soul” (Acts 4:32). This conflict is one of working out what it means to be actually knit together as the body of Christ and figuring out how the whole group of those who believe they belong to Christ can live together with one heart and soul.

Choosing to Build Trust

Even today, there are many times that we are pressured from all sides to choose. When there are fractures in society, conflicts between friends or families and distressingly in our church, we are told we have to choose a side, that we must be on one side or another, that we cannot allow ourselves to be knit together.

Yet, the Christians in this scripture did not permit differences to separate them. Rather, they acknowledged the differences and yet allowed themselves to be knit together in the body of Christ. They empowered others to be leaders. They continued their commitment to care for those on the margins.

Historian Dr. Dana Robert writes that the secret to success of the early women’s mission movement was “unity among married and single women, prominent and ordinary women, missionary and homeside women, and women of different Protestant traditions.”¹ That unity took place over time, through friendships built on trust and on being knit together in the body of Christ despite differences in doctrine or worship style.

She points out that one of the important aspects of the early women’s mission society movement was the united study of mission. Robert notes that the woman’s meeting at the London Missionary Conference in 1888 resulted in the creation of “a committee for the united study of missions” in 1900.² Women organized for mission and asked for “reliable material about missions”³ and so “women created a committee composed of Congregationalist, Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist, and Episcopal representatives” to publish an annual textbook to be used by mission study groups in local churches. Soon, study books were written for children, and studies were written for summer schools of mission.⁴ Women organized for mission and mission study across denominational differences. At the time that this interdenominational cooperative study began, the Methodists were not a united church; they were still living out the divisions wrought by disagreements over slavery and the Civil War. Yet, through the study of mission, women sought to be knitted together in Christ.

What does it mean to be knit together? When two sections of knitted work are joined together, the crafter must pay careful attention to detail. The two sections are not blended into something different, but rather joined so that each one's beauty complements the other. Share a few minutes of a video that demonstrates how to join two sections of knitted work by entering the following search term online: "knitting tips no. 2 video." Or have a volunteer bring an example of their knitting to show to the group.

Being knit together creates something beautiful, and if it is done with careful attention, something strong. Joining together for the early Christians meant that they needed to listen to the people who didn't have power, develop leaders and share responsibilities. Joining together means being grounded in prayer and worship, being led by the Spirit so that no one is left out of the community of grace.

United Methodist Women continually seeks new ways to adapt and focus on the needs of women, children and youth. One of the ways that United Methodist Women is acting to build these bridges and transform the role of women is to advocate for girls' access to education. College and university students in Africa, Asia, Europe, Latin America and the Caribbean receive scholarship awards to pursue higher education. These proven leaders become clergy, community developers, medical professionals, teachers, computer technicians, economists, lawyers and more. Your Mission Giving makes it possible to offer scholarships to young women across the world.

What is Ash Wednesday?

As the ashes are placed on the forehead the minister might say "Remember that you are dust and to dust you shall return," recalling God's words to Adam in Genesis 3:19. Through the service of ashes on the first day of Lent, we come before God recognizing our humanity, repenting of our sin, and remembering who we are and who we can be. – taken from Ask The UMC-FAQs

Ash Wednesday Schedule

Ruth will be giving out ashes on Feb. 17th:
Ashes to Go for Everybody
12:00 to 2:30 on Broadway Bridge
Ashes and Meditation
3:00 to 6:00 Trinity Sanctuary.

EIPH COVID-19 Vaccine Scheduling Update

Eastern Idaho Public Health update

SATURDAY, JANUARY 30, 2021 - (4:30 pm)

https://eiph.idaho.gov/Home/Hot%20Topics/Coronavirus/COVID_Vaccine.html

This morning at 9:00, nearly 2,000 COVID-19 vaccine appointments were made available to people aged 65 and older who are eligible to receive the vaccine beginning Monday, February 1. Within 20 minutes, the 2,000 available appointments were filled either by people calling on the phone or scheduling online. We are working to open up more appointments through the end of March, which we expect to be done later this week. As more information becomes available in the coming days, we will share it through our regional media partners, on our website, and our Facebook page.

<https://www.facebook.com/EIPH.Idaho/>

There are over 30,000 people in the 65 and older age group in EIPH's eight-county region (Bonneville, Clark, Custer, Fremont, Jefferson, Lemhi, Madison, and Teton Counties) all vying for these limited appointments. However, vaccine supply is extremely limited with currently just over 2,100 doses coming to Eastern Idaho Public Health's eight-county region each week. These doses are then distributed to more than 40 provider locations (including EIPH offices) in our region to administer to individuals. Please recognize, all providers are having the same challenges with extremely limited vaccine supply. We anticipate it will take at least 12 weeks to get the vaccine to everyone in the 65 and older group at this rate. However, we are hopeful that the vaccine supply will increase in the coming weeks. While we understand so many are very eager to receive the vaccine, we must ask for your patience.

We are extremely pleased that 2,000 appointments were able to be made so quickly. The online scheduling links went live at 9:00 a.m. as did our phone lines. At the same time, our experience today also helped identify some areas for improvement, which we will quickly work to address. Several issues were related to the online scheduling tool and we have already received many suggestions for improvement which we will provide to the vendors in hopes of simplifying it as much as possible. Inability to get through on the phone lines due to them all being in use created frustration and confusion as well. With the call volumes we experienced, it prevented people from getting to the recorded message informing them that all the appointments had been filled.

Please know that we are working diligently to get the COVID-19 vaccine out to people as quickly as we can in the midst of the challenges, we have with very limited vaccine supply. Again, we ask for your patience as we work through this monumental undertaking as quickly as possible.

Geri Rackow, Director
Eastern Idaho Public Health

When more appoints become available later this week you can go to EIPH website (<https://www.EIPH.Idaho.gov>) to see what appointment options are available including options though public health, pharmacies, and private providers.

If you do not have access to the internet, you can call EIPH offices (208-533-3235) to schedule an appointment for an Eastern Idaho Public Health (EIPH) clinic. The phone lines will be closed once all appointments are filled.

COVID-19 Vaccine CAUTION:

Remember there are 2 shots required, spaced 3 to 4 weeks apart. You will start to have some immunity seven days after your first dose. Your immunity will continue to build and will reach a peak about two weeks after the second dose (total of 5-6 weeks). Don't be lulled into a false sense of safety. Wear your masks, wash your hands and keep your physical distance.

A Lesson from The Christian Scriptures - (Acts 6:1-7)

Seven Chosen to Serve

Now during those days, when the disciples were increasing in number, the Hellenists complained against the Hebrews because their widows were being neglected in the daily distribution of food. And the twelve called together the whole community of the disciples and said, "It is not right that we should neglect the word of God in order to wait on tables. Therefore, friends,[b] select from among yourselves seven men of good standing, full of the Spirit and of wisdom, whom we may appoint to this task, while we, for our part, will devote ourselves to prayer and to serving the word." What they said pleased the whole community, and they chose Stephen, a man full of faith and the Holy Spirit, together with Philip, Prochorus, Nicanor, Timon, Parmenas, and Nicolaus, a proselyte of Antioch. They had these men stand before the apostles, who prayed and laid their hands on them.

The word of God continued to spread; the number of the disciples increased greatly in Jerusalem, and a great many of the priests became obedient to the faith.
