Worship on 3/13

This Sunday, Reverend Ruth’s sermon will be:
“Everything God Has”

The Theme for the day will be:
“Caring For the World Around Us”

Luke 15:1-3, 11b-32 (The Prodigal Son)

By this time a lot of men and women of questionable reputation were hanging around Jesus, listening intently. The Pharisees and religion scholars were not pleased, not at all pleased. They growled, “He takes in sinners and eats meals with them, treating them like old friends.” Their grumbling triggered this story.

“There was once a man who had two sons. The younger said to his father, ‘Father, I want right now what’s coming to me.’

“So the father divided the property between them. It wasn’t long before the younger son packed his bags and left for a distant country. There, undisciplined and dissipated, he wasted everything he had. After he had gone through all his money, there was a bad famine all through that country and he began to feel it. He signed on with a citizen there who assigned him to his fields to slop the pigs. He was so hungry he would have eaten the corn-cobs in the pig slop, but no one would give him any.

“That brought him to his senses. He said, ‘All those farmhands working for my father sit down to three meals a day, and here I am starving to death. I’m going back to my father. I’ll say to him, Father, I’ve sinned against God, I’ve sinned before you; I don’t deserve to be called your son. Take me on as a hired hand.’ He got right up and went home to his father.

“When he was still a long way off, his father saw him. His heart pounding, he ran out, embraced him, and kissed him. The son started his speech: ‘Father, I’ve sinned against God, I’ve sinned before you; I don’t deserve to be called your son ever again.’

“But the father wasn’t listening. He was calling to the servants, ‘Quick. Bring a clean set of clothes and dress him. Put the family ring on his finger and sandals on his feet. Then get a prize-winning heifer and roast it. We’re going to feast! We’re going to have a wonderful time! My son is here – given up for dead and now alive! Given up for lost and now found!’ And they began to have a wonderful time.

“All this time his older son was out in the field. When the day’s work was done he came in. As he approached the house, he heard the music and dancing. Calling over one of the houseboys, he asked what was going on. He told him, ‘Your brother came home. Your father has ordered a feast – barbecued beef! – because he has him home safe and sound.’

“The older brother stomped off in an angry sulk and refused to join in. His father came out and tried to talk to him, but he wouldn’t listen. The son said, ‘Look how many years I’ve stayed here serving you, never giving you one moment of grief, but have you ever thrown a party for me and my friends? Then this son of yours who has thrown away your money on whores shows up and you go all out with a feast!’

“His father said, ‘Son, you don’t understand. You’re with me all the time, and everything that is mine is yours – but this is a wonderful time, and we had to celebrate. This brother of yours was dead, and he’s alive! He was lost, and he’s found!’”

“Rise,” Lenten Devotional

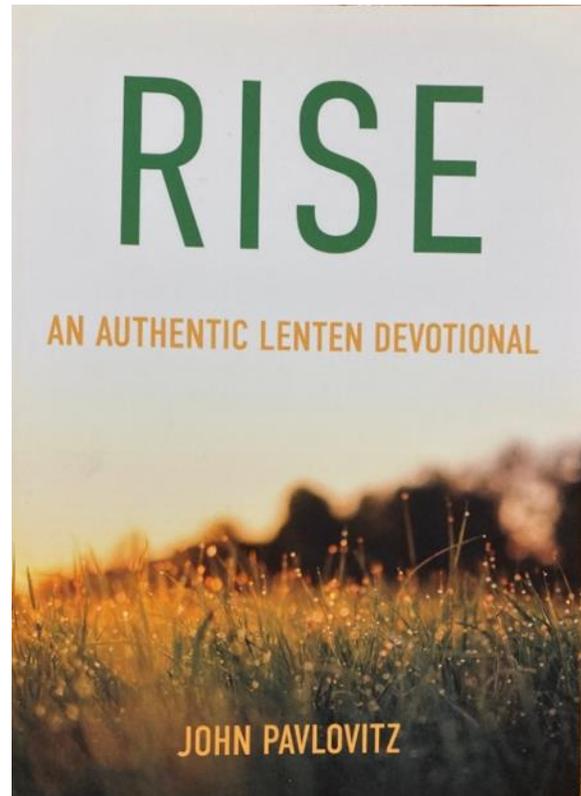

Last Sunday we started our RISE Lenten study class on Sunday right after church. The class is a series of daily readings as we go through the Lenten season. Last Sunday we talked about the readings, share out interpretations and ask Rev Ruth the really hard questions.

The general theme of the class is best described as “The spiritual journey – like the human experience – is not a level, linear path where pitfalls are uniform and where growth is predictable and progress comfortable. It is a messy, meandering, awkward path of stops and starts. It is made of both the falling and the getting back up – and the former is often far easier than the latter.”

The first four readings covered:

1. The struggles that are currently in your windshield will soon be in your rear-view mirror.
2. If you want to be better at presence, work on absence first.
3. Things you hold against someone might be holding you back from experiencing the fullness of the present
4. This day may be part of the waiting for healing rather than the end of healing
5. The wise path forward for those of us who don't wait very well: Stay. Love. Repeat.

Please join us next Sunday right after church for some coffee and discussion. You can get a book from the office at church or order it online. We will be reading section 6-12 for this Sunday. – Don Rohde

John Wesley Quote

I really hope the Sunday Schools will be productive of great good to the nation. They spread wider and wider, and are likely to reach every part of the kingdom.

Sermon from 3/6

"Sermon: "No Way!"
based on Luke 4:1-13

Jesus preached to people who were afraid that war was about to break out because they were being oppressed by an authoritarian government. Jesus preached to people who realized that the economic systems of the day probably were not in their favor. Jesus preached to people who faced widespread disease and death. Jesus preached to people who were exhausted from trying to put one foot in front of the other. Jesus preached to people who were just like many of us in this room.

The Gospel lesson from Luke this morning doesn't miss a beat getting to the point of letting us know that the devil knows human kind. The devil, the personification of evil knows Jesus, and therefore knows us. It is not an accident that the temptations are of a universal nature.

What person in 21st century USA has not been tempted to mis-use food, beverage or drugs? Too much, or too little or not the right kind, any sales campaign for any product will tell you that you aren't doing it right... Lucky for Jesus, the scriptures had an answer for him, and lucky for us, those answers are still there.

The devil's temptation for Jesus to misuse power begins with the lie that the world belongs to the devil and is therefore the devil's to give, or that Jesus is not already the inheritor of all that is.

The third temptation, to just give up and jump off this scary, wild, difficult trip of life, is perhaps the most 21st century kind of temptation.

Right now, in the foreverness of COVID, at a time when Russia has invaded Ukraine and it feels like we might be on the brink of WWII, the temptation to just not care, or to sink into the deep darkness of despair is great!

In the past few weeks, I've written what seems like volumes. The sermons that poured out of my mind and fingers were long, with multiple points and complexities. But this week, nothing came... There is always a temptation not to write, not to plan, not to even attend to this week's work. Seldom do I succumb to these temptations. But they are there.

Then it is time to practice tried and true advice: step back, breathe deeply and remember that as a beloved child of God, you, and I, are held gently in our Creator's love.

So it is enough that I spent time in the late winter sunshine smudging God's love on people's foreheads in the form of ash crosses; people who would not have had that experience of hearing how they are God's beloved, if I not been there standing at the south-east end of the Broadway Bridge.

It is enough that I wrote down on my list that I will get on the treadmill, even if I haven't yet.

It is enough to remember that I too, am a beloved of God... just like you. Amen.

Blessings,
Reverend Ruth

UMW News

Greetings! Our next meeting will be March 10th at 1:00 in the church parlor. All women are invited to gather for "A Call to Prayer and Self-Denial," a faith-filled time to assemble with lifted hearts and hands before our Creator God. Marilyn Taylor will be leading us in a celebration of selfless giving and spiritual communion with God. The theme this year is "Love, Justice, and Service: Answering the Call". A special offering will be taken. Mary Nagle will be the hostess. We hope to see you there.

Don't forget to "check out" the new books that can be found in the UMW library in the parlor. The book One Dress, One Year is about a sixteen year old girl who decided to wear the same dress every day for a year to bring about awareness to human trafficking. Her journey is filled with hope, discipline, and sometimes disappointment. This book shows readers their voices matter; they can make a difference.

See you Thursday
